

Press release for Borderless: Migration, Globalization, and Changing Communities

(This press release should be completed with your organization's information and printed on your letterhead.)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: (YOUR NAME), (YOUR PHONE, E-MAIL, AND WEBSITE)

FREE DISCUSSION ABOUT MIGRATION, GLOBALIZATION, AND CHANGING COMMUNITIES

Event part of the statewide Conversation Project: A New Chautauqua.

(YOUR CITY, Ore.)—(month, day, year of press release)—How can local communities in the twenty-first century think in new ways about the relationship between migration and globalization, and their effects on Oregon communities?

This is the focus of "Borderless: Migration, Globalization, and Changing Communities," a free conversation with Lewis & Clark College professor Elliott Young on (day of week), (month, day, year) at (time) at (name and program location address). This program is hosted by (host organization) and sponsored by Oregon Humanities (formerly Oregon Council for the Humanities).

Young was born in New York City and has been migrating westward ever since. He has conducted research and done community development work in Cuba, Mexico, Nicaragua, Paraguay, and Ecuador. Young has been a professor of Latin American and borderlands history at Lewis & Clark College in Portland since 1997.

For more information about this free community discussion, please contact (name) at (phone) or (e-mail).

Through the Conversation Project program, Oregon Humanities (OH) offers statewide opportunities for civic dialogue and humanities learning with an emphasis on discussing contemporary issues through interactive, facilitated conversations. Oregon Humanities (813 SW Alder St, #702, Portland, OR 97205) is an independent, nonprofit affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities that believes in the power of ideas and insights to transform communities. More information about OH's programs and publications, which include the Conversation Project: A New Chautauqua, Think & Drink, Humanity in Perspective, Teacher Institutes, Summer Honors Symposium, Public Program Grants, and Oregon Humanities magazine, can be found at oregonhumanities.org.

#